KI NITCE tans. - Those who have read the history of Modern Europe have not failed to notree the disastrous results that have always kept attendance, in the different empires, upon the anti-war parties who kept up their antiwar policy during the existence of hostilities. The people look with a jealous eye upon those who manifest in any way an unwillingness to maintain the supremacy of their country, their institutions, and their laws. Among the Greeks, through many centuries it was held as an article of national faith the isten e was intolerable without a country. and in that term was comprehended not only their native soil but the institutions of their chaice. Horace expressed the universal feeling of his countrymen when he said "it is sweet to die for one's country." Among our Luglish ancestry these sentiments of love o intry have ever prevailed, and they have ome to us among the heir-looms derived from the Anglo-Saxon race. A notable illustration of this British sentiment and of the American beling occured in the history of the Luglish est with the first Napoleon, and in the last war between this country and treat Britain. In 1" the youthful Pitt was made Premier of Great Britain and entered upon that training that was to fit him for a contest with the French Lupire under the leadership of Napoleov. That contest lasted seventeen years and Great Britain had to bear the brun! of it. The war party, the mangement of hostilities, was led by Pitt, and against him was arrayed the most remarkable opposition, for talents and position, that ever assailed a Gov-Charles James Fox, Ldmund Burke, and E. B. Sheridan were the conspicnous leaders of the anti-war party and for years they blazed away at the war policy of Pitt with an electric power of cloquence scarcely ever surpassed. In looking at the material upon which they based their opposition, it is almost inconcervable how they failed, nor can it be understood, except by an understanding of that inherent love of country which enables a people to bear all evils that may be essential to the maintenance of the supremacy of their country. Let us look at the numerous hurdens sustained by the Luglish people as the cost of their war with France. The annual expenditures of Logland, previous to her war with France was $70,140,000. In 1797, four years afterwards, the addition to the public debt was $350,000,000, and for eighteen years there was a regular increase of loans and taxes. In 1815 Great Britian raised by taxation nearly $450,000,000. Between the years I 11 and 1815 the average exports from Great Britain and Ireland were $210. t. 5,000 per annum, while the average amount of loans and taxes for those periods was $540,865,000, or nearly three times the amount of annual exports. The average annual amount of taxes and loans from 1811 to 1815 was $30 50 for each man, woman, and child in the Kingdom. And during that time her spulation was nearly five millions less than that of the loval portions of the United States. Only about eight per cent, of these hurdens was laid upon the lands and property of the empire, while the remaining nincty-two per cent. of this enormous burden was levied upon the industry and consumption of the country.

A contemporary says

A ricice of universal and necessary consumption and raw products imported for manufacture were made to bear 22-100 of this enormous expectation. The result may be judged from the fact that the poor rates were nearly doubled, amounting to almost $40,000,000 per annum, a fact more elequent than any description of the misery and destination which prevailed. How unequal this taxation was will be further manifest from the amount yielded by the taxes on some of the commonest articles of communition. A lax of 1d a pound on andles vielded in a single year $2,488,000; the tax of 21 d. on each pound of soap yielded in 1815, $3.3 0,000; the daty on paper in the same year produced $2,070,000.

Such burdens and restraints upon the industry of the nation could but make themselves manifest in the most serious disturbances in its financial affairs, and the chapter which records them is probably the most wonderful inlustration ever given of the powerful forces which machinery and invention have introduced into modern civilization, of the blindness, and perversity, and stupid blundering of governors, and of the endurance and pittable suffering of a people. The successive gradation in misery and divaseler which mark the history of the people of lingtand for more than half a cartury we want the space to recount, but we may alluse to three of the grand cultiminations which occurred at irregular intervals down to a very recent date. Very sincerely yours. J. HOLT. Gen. JAS. SPEED, Frankfort, Ky. Washington, Sept. 12, 1861. DEAR SIR: The late act of Congress providing or the confiscation of the estates of persons in open rebellion against the Government was as a necessary war measure accepted and fully approved by the loyal men of the country. It limited the penalty of confiscation to property actually employed in the service of the rehellion with the knowledge and consent of its owners, and, in instead of emancipating slaves thus employed, left their status to be determined either by the courts of the United States or by subsequent legislation. The proclamation, however, of General Fremont, under date of the 30th of August, tran scends and of course violates the law in both these particulars, and declares that the property of rebels, whether used in support of the rebellion or not, shall be conficuated, and if consisting n slaves, that they shall be at once manumitted. The act of Congress referred to was believed to embedy the conservative policy of your administration upon this delicate and perplexing question, and hence the loyal men of the der Slave States have felt relieved of all ate suddenly in their midst a population unprepared for freedom and whose presence could not fail to prove a painful apprehension if not of terror to the homes and families of all. You may therefore well judge of the alarm and condemnation with which the Union-loving citizens of Ken-tucky—the State with whose popular sentiment I am best acquainted-have read this preclamation. The hope is earnestly endulged by them as it is by myself that this paper was issued under the pressure of a military necessity which Gen. Frement believed justified the step, but that in the particulars specified it has not your approbation and will not be enforced in derogation of law The magnitude of the interest at stake and my extreme desire that by no misapprehension of your sentiments or purposes shall the power and fervor of the loyalty of Kantucky be at this moment abated or chilled must be my apology for and for the request I venture to make of an expression of your views upon the points of Gen. Fremont's proclamation on which I have com-I have the bonor to be very respectfully you bedient servant, J. HOLT. His Excellency, ABRAHAM LINEOUN, President

Executive Mansion, Sept. 12, 1861. Hon. JOSETH HOLT—Dear Sir: Yours of this day in relation to the late proclamation of Gen. Fremont is received. Yesterday I addressed a letter to him by mail on the same subject, and which is to be made public when he receives it. herewith send you a copy of that letter, which perhaps shows my position as distinctly as any new one I could write. I will thank you not to make it public until Gen. 1 remont shall have had time to receive the original.

Your obedient serv't, A. LINCOLN. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 11, 1861. MAJ. GEN. JOHN C. FREMONI-Sir: Yours of he 8:h in answer to mine of the 2d inst. is just received. Assuming that you, upon the ground, could better judge of the necessities of your position than I could at this distance, on seeing your proclamation of August 30th. I perceived no general objection to it. The articular clause, however, in relation to the coniscation of property and the liberation of slaves, appeared to me to be objectionable in its nonconformity to the act of Congress, passed the 6th of last Angus', npon the same subjects, and hence I wrote yon, expressing my wish that that clause should be modified accordingly. Your answer part that I should make an open order for the medification, which I vary cheerfully do. number would be avenged by the hanging of a strued as to conform to and not transcend the said proclamation be so modified, held and conprovisions on the subject contained in the aut of Congress, entitled, an Act to Connecate Property used for Insurrectionary Purposes, approved

We had several political, metaphysical, and conomic treatises offered this morning from the ecession side of the House, all of which seem to gnore tha fact that the United States Governnent is contending for its very existence against armed rebellion. They all look to the alleged usurpations of the Federal Government, but say nothing of the impudent invasion of the State by the Confederates. These treatises were in the form of joint resolutions, and were all referred to the Committee on Federal Relations. Mr. Alfred Allen, however, took a practical view of existing cheapest rates, by inquiring immediately at this difficulties by introducing the following:

We commit no imprepriety in amounting that the preparations for two important movements against the Southern coast are rapidly going forward, so that the expeditions will be ready to sat sail within a very few weeks. Lacut, McClocky, of the Union company from the clue county, was abot in the addomen, and, after lingering about twenty-four houra, died, From the Wheeling Intelligences of Sept 12 lanaged to latter part latter part puntered a rt county, and after used them seen killed.

But the seen killed. K chie county, was abot in the atdomen, and, after lingering about twenty-four hours, died. The Union force then burned the bouse of Peter Schungh, a prominent secession leader, and also the house of another rebel, whose name we did not learn. Both of the house were fortified. Two rebels who had taken the oath of allegiance, and were caught with arms in their hands, were taken out and abot. Two more men, canght under similar circumstances, were to have lesen shed.

Clocks, Diantilias, and Varieties. Clouks, Muntilina, and Varioties Merriman, C. T., 4th st., near Main. der similar circumstances, were to have ieen shot the next day. Major Slemmer, in marching through Roane county, found eight dead men in an obscure thicket. It was not known whether the hodies were these of Union men or rebels. Blace Siemmer is estistied that the rebels have a signal ruckets, by which they warn one another of the approach of his force. They also have a signal file the hooting of an owl, which is very advantageously used. By these, and similar means, they are enabled to clude the pursuit of Siemmer s command, and to scatter into small bodies.

Progress of Gen S. Plate.—Authentic information has been received at Jefferson and in this city that General S. Price, at the head of eleven thousand men, was edvancing on Lexington. A portion of his forces did actually arrive at Warrensburg on Tuesday last, and the whole at Warrensb cloven thousand men, was edvancing on Lexington. A portion of his forces did setuelly arrive at Warrensburg on Tuesday last, and the whole ermy was expected to enter that place on that day. Warrensburg is the county seat of Johnson county, and is thirty seven miles from Lexington, whither Price is hastering, with what object we cannot divine. Lexington is the heart of a rich country, and it may be that Gen. Price desires to possess himself of the intrenchments erected by the Inited States troops there, and thereby ensities him to recuperate his Commissary and Quartermater Departments, up to this time not in a very fluurishing state. Gen. Price has II.000 men under his command, and he may be joined by 1000 or 4,000 under Martiu Green, who has unquestionably cre and the river, leaving the Northment that can be disself. Gen. Price has with him also some twelve or officen pieces of ertillery. Against this forca the I inted States troops at lexington do not number more than 2,000, leu, as they are intrenched and have quite as many pieces of artillery as the enemy, they will understaidly defend themselves in the expertation of relief from some quarter. If General Pope is advised of the approach of Frice upon Lexington, he will at one see the propriety of marching to the relief of that city, and will, no doubt, do it. We have a strances that the Hannibal and St. loseph Hailroad is new in a condition to travel upon it, and General Pope can transport his men to a point only absent forty—we make distant from Lexington. I worked marches may bring his troop to that city, interes protect it from the enemy if we matche not one in two regiments, from leferson City, have been marching for a week of two part in the direction of lessington. We armed and due plined, as these troops new are, they can be concentrated, they can drive bad the rebela, and very soon they will be driven our of the State.—St. Long hypothet an, 14th.
